CAMP WATER SUPPLY IS CAUSING TROUBLE

Creek Dammed Up to Furnish Mill, and Not Enough Left for Horses and Mules.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
 Winchester, Va., July 25.—While the camp of cavalry instruction, participated in by the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth Regiments of United States Cavalry, just east of Winchester, is adhering strictly to the program of maneuvers mapped out by the General Cavalry Board, with Colonel C. H. Murray, of the Twelfth Cavalry, in command, there are a number of problems which are causing the officers much concern.

One of the most serious of these is the matter of obtaining a sufficient quantity of water for the horses and mules at the usual watering time. When the grounds were leased by the government from Noah W. Solenberger, of Winchester, it was taken for granted that the horses and mules could easily be watered at Opequon Creek, half a mile from the camp grounds, but it now develops that a mill owner at Bartonville, Frederick County, has been damming up the water at certain periods during the day so that he can operate his mill, and there is not sufficient water in the creek for the horses and mules when the proper time comes for watering the same. The mill owner, it is declared, has no legal right to dam up the water, and he is not inclined to be made to change the instruction program and water the horses and mules to suit the convenience of the mill man. It is expected, however, that by to-morrow an arrangement will be made whereby there will be ample water in the large creek when it is time to water the animals.

Seedsmen, - Richmond, Va.

Another problem to be overcome is that of putting the Front Royal Road, from a point near the Berry's Ferry Turnpike to the camp grounds, a distance of about three and a half miles, into better condition. Little rain has fallen since the instruction camp was begun, and the dust is from three to four inches thick. Practically everything between the Berry's Ferry Turnpike and the camp along the Front Royal Road is covered with dust, which has become a general nuisance. The Frederick County Board of Supervisors recently declined to improve the road, on the ground that there was not sufficient levy in the treasury for the purpose. All toll gates were ordered taken off years ago by the court because the road was not up to the required standard. Yesterday, however, William F. Cooke, an expert road engineer of the Virginia Highway Commission, came from Richmond, and with H. P. Byrd, S. L. Lupton and C. R. McLean, held a conference with Colonel Murray.

The matter will be laid before the supervisors again in this way: The government and the State will each pay its proportionate cost of resurfacing the road in a number of places where it is badly needed and then have the road thoroughly oiled, provided the supervisors will pay the other third. Should the county authorities again decline to consider the matter favorably, it is likely that the Winchester City Council and some of the wealthiest residents here will be made plain to-day that the road must be improved, and it may be so ordered by the court.

All the officers and men of the Tenth Cavalry were made happy last evening when they received their pay for the month of June. Lieutenant Blaine, of that regiment, accompanied by a dozen or more picked troopers, each of whom was armed to the teeth with carbines and revolvers, rode up to town and guarded the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank while the officer and several of the armed troopers went in and drew out $15,000 in greenbacks and silver. It was placed in a leather pouch and locked, and on the way to camp the lieutenant was guarded closely. The troops are encamped here, an army paymaster will come with his assistants from Washington to pay off the soldiers. He will arrange to have the currency sent to one of the local banks.

Sergeant Jenkins, of Troop K, and Private Rigby, of Troop M, both of the Fifteenth Cavalry, reported sick yesterday, and were at once sent to the Fort Myer hospital for treatment. No other cases were reported. The following officers attached to the Winchester camp received orders to-day to enter the next class of the Mounted Service School at Fort Riley, Kan., reporting to the commanding officer at Fort Riley by September 25: Captain William A. Cornell, Tenth Cavalry; Second Lieutenant Stewart B. Cummins, Tenth Cavalry; First Lieutenant Emmet R. Harris, Eleventh Cavalry; Second Lieutenant Stewart O. Eling, Eleventh Cavalry; First Lieutenant Robert F. Tate, Fifteenth Cavalry, and Second Lieutenant Chester P. Barnett, Fifteenth Cavalry.

Crocker Not Coming Back.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, July 25.—Richard Crocker, who is staying here with George Edwards, the well-known theatrical manager, for the Goodwood races, denied to-day the report that he was about to return to America shortly. "I am staying here," he said, "for a couple of weeks over the Goodwood races."

To a correspondent he said he would return to Ireland after the races and remain there until after Christmas, when he would go to Florida for his annual visit.

NEURALGIA CURE RESULTS IN DEATH

Henry Wyatt Clowe Inhales Chloroform in Effort to Relieve Pain.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winchester, Va., July 25.—Henry Wyatt Clowe, sixty-eight years old, was found dead in a chair this morning in his jewelry store by his son, Milfin Clowe. The coroner's jury agreed death was due to inhaling chloroform for neuralgia, from which he suffered intense pain daily for years. He was a member of all local Masonic bodies and the Southern Methodist Church. A widow, three sons, two daughters and two brothers survive. His father, the late Captain Henry Wyatt Clowe, was superintendent of the Harpers Ferry arsenal several years before the Civil War began.

Remarkable Christmas Present

Among the curious Christmas presents of this year will be one for a man of national reputation, which has been all year in the making. Way last January the present was decided upon, and a friend of the prominent gentleman requested the Burrelle Press Clipping Bureau, of New York, to watch every paper in America and to take up every item which appeared concerning the man.

The clipping bureau people followed instructions, and now present the history of one year in the life of this special man.

The history ends just after election, and the 20,642 newspaper items found included everything from a three-line editorial mention to full-page illustrated stories. These have been mounted on 3,700 great sheets of Irish linen paper and bound into three massive volumes.

At the head of each item is the name and date of paper clipped from, this being done by a man put in with a book typewriter. The words thus inserted amount to 163,352.

In actual time, a very strict record of which has been kept, the work has required sixty-four working days throughout the year, and has kept in employment during that time thirty people as readers, clippers, sorters, mounters and binders. Every newspaper of importance is represented.

This is merely a specimen of some of the unique orders which get into the Burrelle Bureau, for the extent to which clippings are used by individuals and by business concerns seems to be remarkable.

There are many people in private as well as in public life who need press clippings and don't know it. It might be well for them to look up this man Burrelle, who is said to be so well known that a letter simply addressed "Burrelle, New York," will reach him with no delay. (Advertisement.)

PROMISE IS GIVEN BEFORE HEARING

Postmaster-General Committed Prior to Receiving Virginia Delegation.

CAUSE OF CHILLY TREATMENT

Senator Martin Still Hopeful Office Will Be Saved for Bristol.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, July 25.—It developed here to-day that the probable reason for the chilly attitude shown the members of the Bristol, Va., delegation yesterday when they appeared before Postmaster-General Burleson, appealing from an order which had been issued abolishing the post-office at that place, is due to the fact that, as reported, Mr. Burleson recently communicated with Senator Shields, of Tennessee, advising him that the order would stand. When the fact became known here it was stated that it probably would have been better had the Postmaster-General stated to the Virginians at once that his mind was made up in the matter than to have listened to their pleas in a half-hearted manner.

The question has not been settled yet, and to-day Senator Martin issued a statement on the subject. It will be seen that his reference to the way the Virginians were treated refers to what took place at the White House and not at the Post-Office Department.

"Of course," said Senator Martin, "there is a great deal of sentiment against striking down a post-office in a municipality organized under Virginia law, but there is something more than sentiment and State pride, as sufficient as those considerations would be."

It must be remembered that this Virginia city has a population of more than 7,000, and without a post-office at Bristol, Va., the business interests there would be terribly handicapped. The schools, colleges, churches, publishing houses and all of the agencies of civilized life in that locality are to be subordinated and disparaged if the Post-Office Department insists on its present policy.

"It is true a small economy might be accomplished, but a greater economy would be accomplished if the office at Jersey City were discontinued and the people of that city served through a substation from New York. Indeed, such a policy would necessarily lead to the discontinuance of all offices near State lines. Alexandria would go promptly."

"We have been laboring under the impression that the post-office service was established to furnish facilities and conveniences for the people and to promote their comfort and develop their aspirations and proper ideals. There should be economy in the service as far as possible, but the service should not be destroyed to economize a few dollars."

"The Virginia delegation were treated with great politeness, patience, and consideration by the President, and they feel confident that his high sense of public duty will induce him to heed the appeals which have been presented to him so earnestly in the interest of fair dealing for Bristol, Va. It is hard to realize the intensity of feeling existing over this matter. There is a deep sense of injustice not only at Bristol, and in that vicinity, but it is extending throughout the State. State pride is aroused. Justice to State interests is demanded. We trust the administration will agree with us and see to it that justice is done, and that the pride of the old Commonwealth is not humiliated by this discrimination."

OFFICERS RAID TENTS NEAR CAMP

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winchester, Va., July 25.—A sudden raid on a tent at the edge of the United States camp of cavalry instruction near Winchester, in which were found two French-Canadian women with a dozen members of the Tenth Cavalry (colored), was made early this morning by Sheriff Pannett, of Frederick County, assisted by Second Lieutenant Arthur F. Conrad, of that regiment. The negroes made their escape, except a corporal, who ran into a barbed wire fence, injuring himself so badly that he is in the field hospital. A mulatto, George Franklin, who had a moving picture machine at the camp, escaped. One woman was caught by the sheriff after an exciting chase through a cornfield, while the other was held by a deputy. Both are in jail here.

Letters addressed to women in Burlington, Vt., urging them to come here, were found among Franklin's effects, as were also photographs of women and ten gallons of whiskey, all of which is being held by Colonel C. H. Murray, commander of the camp, in communication with the War Department, and declares the white slave traffic will not be tolerated. Another raid was made two hours later at the home of George Randolph, colored, where three negro women were quartered, but no evidence was found.

Lightning strikes a man at desk and stenographer taking dictation. New York, July 25.—A bolt of lightning entered the window of the office of the United States Gum, Tape Company and struck A. G. Prior, president of the concern, and Miss Fleischmann, his stenographer, hurling them from their chairs. Prior was badly burned on the head, and suffered severely from the shock. The stenographer received a few bruises from the fall. Prior was dictating to Miss Fleischmann when the lightning entered the window, which was partly raised.

Dr. A. J. Savage found a long, seared wire running down the right side of Prior's head, the wire being singed. He responded to treatment and soon was able to be taken to his home in Montclair, N. J., in a taxicab. Prior was dictating to Miss Fleischmann when the lightning entered the window, which was partly raised.

Woman of Ninety-Four Anxious to Maintain Long Sunday-School Record. Alton, Ill., July 25.—Mrs. E. B. Clarkson, aged ninety-four, is using ice on her head to make the trip to and from the First Presbyterian Sunday school weekly to keep up her record of fourteen years' consecutive attendance. Fourteen years ago she sought to establish a record for perfect attendance.

Odds and Ends From the Wire

HAWK AIDS COLONEL BOGIE.

Early Bird Catches Golf Ball and Puts It in Bunker. Hackensack, N. J., July 25.—H. O. Yerkes, a newcomer here from New York, and his neighbor, George W. Lytle, of Summit Avenue, both members of the Hackensack Golf Club, relate an unusual incident that happened while they were playing an early morning game on the local links.

After Mr. Yerkes made a pretty drive the players watched the ball on its course and were surprised when they saw a hawk follow it along and then pick the ball up. The bird carried the ball a short distance and dropped it in a disadvantageous spot in a bunker, much to the displeasure of Yerkes and the grief of his opponent.

UMBRELLA QUIETS MASHER.

Girl Punishes Him and Weeps When Court Adds One Hundred Dollars' Fine. Kansas City, July 25.—A good pounding on the head with an umbrella and the addition of a fine of $100 was the lot of a young masher with the romantic name of Sanford Vanlew, in the North Side Court. Miss Mary Brown, twenty years old and pretty, was waiting with a girl friend for a car when a large, ferocious young man winked at her, and she came to her senses and raised her umbrella and struck him on the head with her umbrella, raining blows until he turned and ran into a clear store. Miss Brown and the battered masher were produced in court, and the judge asked the masher for an explanation. He said that he had not been in the city very long and that he had been drinking.

Miss Brown asked the court for mercy for the young man because she believed he was not responsible for his actions. When the judge set the fine at $100 she burst into tears and left the court-room.

FINDS FATHER WITH FORTUNE.

Search of Thirty-Eight Years Ends in Astonishment for Son-in-Law. Pottsville, Pa., July 25.—Anthony Lloyd, a man of thirty-eight years, was surprised when John Strause, aged seventy-six, walked into his home and embraced him. Lloyd, who turns out to be his only child, lost to him more than thirty-eight years.

Lloyd is worth about $200,000, being a wealthy ranch owner at Westford, in Wyoming, having a city home at Laramie City, of the same State, and also being engaged in business there.

Many years ago, after he returned from service in the Seventh Pennsylvania Cavalry of the Civil War, he placed his daughter, Emma, in charge of her father's estate in West Wyoming. He was unable to find any trace of her until his sudden meeting with her this week.

The Lloyds and Mr. Strause are now sight-seeing along the Great Lakes, and may go West with him to locate in Wyoming.

LIGHTNING INVASES OFFICE.

Strikes Man at Desk and Stenographer Taking Dictation. New York, July 25.—A bolt of lightning entered the window of the office of the United States Gum, Tape Company and struck A. G. Prior, president of the concern, and Miss Fleischmann, his stenographer, hurling them from their chairs. Prior was badly burned on the head, and suffered severely from the shock. The stenographer received a few bruises from the fall. Prior was dictating to Miss Fleischmann when the lightning entered the window, which was partly raised.

Dr. A. J. Savage found a long, seared wire running down the right side of Prior's head, the wire being singed. He responded to treatment and soon was able to be taken to his home in Montclair, N. Woman of Ninety-Four Anxious to Maintain Long Sunday-School Record. Alton, Ill., July 25.—Mrs. E. B. Clarkson, aged ninety-four, is using ice on her head to make the trip to and from the First Presbyterian Sunday school weekly to keep up her record of fourteen years' consecutive attendance. Fourteen years ago she sought to establish a record for perfect attendance.

Recently she was forced to give up her class but this did not stop her from attending. Mrs. Clarkson takes a small chunk of ice and puts it under her little, old-fashioned bonnet. In a paper carried at her side with her Bible she puts another piece. When the next piece melts the second piece is substituted, and she makes the trip successfully.

SCORES OCEAN GROVE PENURY. Music Director Morgan Renounces Visitors. Ocean Grove, N. J., July 25.—Professor Tall Eben Morgan, who conducts the music and runs a paper at the camp-meeting here, held up to scorn in his Daily Bulletin the visitors who go to the tents on silver offering nights and, after getting their fill of grace, seek out before the collection is made or drop only a cent or two in the plate. The musician-editor calls such people "Copper Christians," whom he does not hope to remind of a sizzling hereafter for their parsimony, because it is impossible "to make a dent in their cast-iron consciences."

Morgan's attack applies to almost one-half the 12,000 persons who attended the children's service Sunday night, for which a silver offering had been announced to pay expenses. "For such downright meanness," the editorial says, "these narrow souls cannot be matched anywhere else in the world. They go through the world doing the same thing everywhere. Some of them make a loud pretense of religion, but their actions always show just what they are."

DIVORCE GROUNDS IN COFFEE. Wife Wanted It Black, Husband Weak, Hence Sult. Allentown, Pa., July 25.—Black coffee and the high cost of living checked the romance of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hauser, of Catasauque, who were married three years ago, when he was sixty-three and she was forty-three, each embarking in matrimony the second time. The wife, Zenobia, started divorce proceedings.

Mrs. Hauser says she was used from life with her first husband to good black coffee, and she wanted it. Hauser wanted his coffee as weak as tea, water, and also objected to the bills she ran up at the store for her favorite beverage. The racket that followed got on her nerves to such an extent that she desires to resume the state of single blessedness. The court allowed her $5 a week temporary alimony.

BURIED IN BURLINGTON. Vast Crowd Attends Funeral of Cardenio F. King, Who Died in Boston. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Burlington, N. C., July 25.—The body of the late Cardenio F. King, who died in Boston Monday night, arrived here this morning. There was an immense concourse of friends and relatives at the station, and the funeral procession was several blocks long. The body was carried to the cemetery immediately, the funeral service having been held at the home in Boston. A short service was conducted at the cemetery by Rev. P. H. Fleming, D. D. The flower wagon was filled with floral tributes, very numerous and beautiful.

The pallbearers were: Colonel J. H. Holt, J. Zeb. Waller, J. M. Coble, J. Stewart, Jr., V. H. Snyder and Martin North.

The body was accompanied by two brothers, James King, of Danville, and Robert M. King, of Richmond. Another brother, John G. King, lives here.
